COMMS CHANNEL SUCCESS

(London, England) SOS Communications has reported that their visit to Comms Channel Expo 2004 has topped their success rating compared to previous years, and with over 200 leads generated, the Company is in for a busy year!

Colin Hepher, Managing Director stated 'The exhibition was a huge success and I am absolutely delighted with the amount of positive enquiries we received. The SOS staff on the stand were extremely busy during the two days of exhibiting, however, it is now that the hard work starts!'

Marketing Executive, Bethanie Ashley commented 'A major advantage for us during Comms Channel was the launch of our new range of Fixed Cellular Terminals. We have been overwhelmed by the number of enquiries relating to the new products we are distributing, which I feel has really underlined how positive the addition of this new technology to our product portfolio will be for us from this point forward.'

Beth continued, 'I am also extremely excited by the amount of interest shown in SOS Communications as a whole, and I feel that new customers can really see the benefits of using SOS to provide new & 2nd user telecommunications equipment, a purchasing service, an in-house repairs department, as well as the provision of new innovations at the forefront of the telecommunications industry. This is all topped off with a continually increasing level of back-up being provided to our customer base, helping us to enable true dealer support.'

The SOS Communications team would also like to thank Phil Hill from 'Comvurgent' and Steve Purvey from 'elephant services group' for joining SOS Communications on their stand throughout the duration of the event. Both the Xtension Recorder, being demonstrated by Phil, and everymessage's new email to SMS text message facility, being demonstrated by Steve, were extremely popular amongst the Comms Channel visitors.
