EVERYMESSAGE DEMONSTRATE 2-WAY EMAIL/MOBILE MESSAGING FUNCTION

(West Sussex, England) As new distributors of the 'everymessage' product, SOS Communications will be welcoming Steve Purvey from 'everymessage', the 2-Way Mobile Messaging Company, onto their exhibition stand during Comms Channel Expo 2004.

Steve will be demonstrating the new product that allows customers to send email to any mobile phone, and have the reply come straight back into their own email inbox. As it is now possible to send email to every mobile phone, the recipient can receive the message, and then reply using their SMS text message facility. The ability to reply and delivery receipt is included in the product package, and the use of UK originated messages provides excellent reliability and speed.

Sending a message to a mobile instead of making a telephone call not only saves money for the users, but can also save valuable time. The product is perfect for relaying messages to a mobile workforce, such as telephone messages or scheduling jobs, whilst leaving the workforce the ability to send updates back to the originator. The product can also be successfully used within the business-to-consumer field, for example, allowing users to enquire if their customers would like to reserve a product, or whether they are happy with the service being provided, etc.

The beauty of this new facility is that customers do not need to buy any new equipment to be able to run the product, or enter into any contracts. 'everymessage' will provide customers with free updates as and when required, and are also offering a free product trial.

For further information regarding 'everymessage' 2-Way mobile messaging, please visit SOS Communications on stand CC426 at Comms Channel Expo, or contact SOS Communications direct on 0870 600 8 505.
